

Disclaimer website U-center B.V.

This website is from U-center B.V., hereinafter referred to as U-center. The following applies to this website. By using the website you agree with this disclaimer.

1.1 Rights

All rights with regard to the content of this website (texts, images, videos, logo, etc.), as well as all related HTML-code and other parts of the website, are vested in U-center. Without prior express written permission from the marketing department (marketing@u-center.nl) of U-center, nothing of the content of this website may be reproduced, stored in an automated database or made public, in any form or manner, or electronically, by photocopying, recording or any other way.

U-center reserves the right to change, add to or remove content from the website at any time.

U-center reserves the right to terminate the website in its entirety without prior notice and without further claims. U-center is also not liable for consequences (damage) as a result of the termination of the website.

1.2 Liability

U-center makes every effort to regularly update and/or supplement the content of the website. Despite this care and attention, U-center is not liable for any incorrect or incomplete information on this website or for damage caused by use of the information.

1.3 Links to third party websites

The fact that third-party websites can be consulted via links on the U-center website does not mean that these websites are recommended or approved by U-center.

U-center is not responsible for the content of the websites accessible via the links, for the protection of privacy on those websites or for services that may be offered via these websites.

1.4 Links to the U-center website

Without prior written permission from the marketing department (marketing@u-center.nl) of U-center, third parties are not allowed to link their website to the website of U-center.